Money Went To Pay Davis's
Debts, Treadwell
Asserts; Tuttle Says
Client Is Guiltless.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. (AP)—Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, was alternately pictured as a shrewd promoter of fraternal lotteries, pocketing liberal profits for himself, and as an unselfish, able organizer of charities today in his trial for violating lottery laws in federal court.

Emphasizing to jurors there is no criminal charge of wrongfully appropriating profits from alleged lotteries in the Loyd Order of Moose against Senator Davis, Louis M. Treadwell, assistant United States district attorney, declared the government never would prove Davis got thousands of dollars in profit from the project.

"We will show," he said, "that Senator Davis did derive profits from running the lotteries, because that is the most convincing proof he knew what was going on."

He said two alleged lotteries, conducted in conjunction with the Moose charity balls of 1930 and 1931, brought in some $30,000.

After the first one, he said, three checks totaling $100,000 were drawn to the order of Fred W. Jones, "financial agent" for Davis, and used as payment on a note at the Fidelity Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., which was the "personal responsibility" of the senator. He said another check for $15,300 was deposited to the personal checking account of Davis.

Tuttle Differed.

The opposite picture of Senator Davis' part in promoting the balls for the Loyd Order of Moose, of which he is director general, was painted by his chief counsel, Charles H. Tuttle, a former United States attorney. "Senator Davis is not charged with stealing any money," he said, "nor with any mail fraud case." In the last analysis he is charged with having in some way put through a project by measures the district attorney chooses to call lottery tickets.

In the first place, he deny the plan of the charity ball was a lottery. We deny there was anything illegal about it. We deny Davis participated in it. And in the fourth place we deny he got a penny out of it."

Both attorneys described a trip off the coast of Connecticut in the Princeton on which "lucky stubs" were drawn to determine who would win.

COUNCIL TO PROBE TROT'S DISMISSAL AT WATER WORKS

Water Committee Told
To Conduct Inquiry; Effort
To Abolish Prison
Committee Beaten.

Instructing the water committee to probe the dismissal of three employees of the city waterworks filter system, kicking a proposal of Councilman E. Pierce Dodd to abolish the prison and farms committee and place operation of the city prison under the streets committee, and sending a proposal to establish a budget commission to the charter revision committee, city council Monday afternoon considered a large number of measures.

E. Vogt, J. E. Robertson and William C. Miller, employees of the water department, were ousted several weeks ago for insubordination, which they claimed was due to their testimony before the committee on the filtration, claimed college degree he did not have. The water committee will initiate an investigation at once.

Dodd lost his fight to abolish the prison and farm committee, headed by Councilman George B. Lyle, by a vote of 21-12. Lyle launched the battle because Tom C. Morris, former superintendent, had been replaced. Alderman G. Everett Millican, co-sponsor of the measure, said the budget proposal, asked that the charter revision committee, in forming council he had conferred with Mayor Fred Tamm, J. Charlie Murphy, in and in defense to Murphy, who is opposed to the measure, he wished to send it to the committee. Murphy is still at the hospital and could not attend council's meeting.

Murphy vetoed the first budget proposal, which council passed, and Millican said council did not intend to take an "unfair advantage" of the ill alderman.

Other Action Taken.

Council took the following action:

1. Voted to extend the permit for operation of the marathon dance at Palais Pictorial for 13 days, despite an attack by Millican, who branded the dance "a racket and a shake-down." Officials of the Arena Amusement company, promoters, announced that profits from the dance would be turned over to the Police Relief Association and Firemen's Relief Association.

Pope Pius Refuses To Receive Callers

VATICAN CITY, Rome, Sept. 19. (AP)—The conflict between Pope Pius and the Berlin-Breslau diocese was believed renewed today when the pope refused to receive any callers in audience.

His decision was understood to have been inspired by the Vatican's unwillingness to receive veterans of the Bersaglieri corps, whose war feats were commemorated yesterday with the dedication of a monument. The monument was unveiled by the king and Premier Mussolini near the spot where the Bersaglieri corps entered Rome in September, 1870, to wrest temporal power from the pope.

A note left by the girl read: "I'm afraid I'm a coward. I am sorry for everything. If I had done this long ago, it would have saved a lot of pain."

A workman's ladder was still leaning against the gigantic letter, part of an illuminated sign 50 feet high. From the condition of her body, found about 100 feet down the slope, police decided the 24-year-old blonde had climbed to the top of the "H," the first letter in an illuminated sign in a real estate subdivision, and jumped off.

An anonymous telephone message revealed the suicide.

G. V. ROOSEVELT PLEDGED TO CALL MONETARY MEET

Candidate Promises Mining Industry To Summon
International Parley
Without Delay.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, OUT OF MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 19. (AP)—After several hours delay due to a train wreck, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight moved on to carry his campaign for the presidency into Washington and Oregon, leaving behind in Montana a promise to call an international monetary conference "without delay or evasion."

For three hours his train was held at Bonner, Mont., while a wrecking crew a few miles ahead worked hurriedly to clear away the damage done by a broken axle on the engine of the east-bound North Pacific Limited, a crack Northern Pacific passenger train.

The engine and two cars were derailed, but except for throwing the tracks out of line, little damage was done. A temporary track was set up to move Governor Roosevelt's special around the wreckage and it sped on to Missoula, a few miles away.

While preparations were being made to move his train forward, the presidential nominee of the democrats sat in his private car working on the speech on public utilities he will deliver in Portland, Ore. On either side of the train rose the towering mountains that form the walls of Hell Gate canyon and to the southward stretched the timbered slopes of the Lolo national forest.

Informing that several thousand persons were waiting at Missoula for the arrival of the train, James A. Fackler, chairman of the democratic national committee, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, C. C. Dill, of Washington, and Key Pittman, of Nevada, left the special with James Roosevelt, son of the nominee, to motor to Missoula. When they arrived, however, most of the crowd, informed of the delay, had dispersed and the speeches that they formulated during their automobile trip went unsaid.

Only a little earlier Mr. Roosevelt had told a crowd of 20,000 in front

GUARDSMEN HALT STRIKING MINERS

Crowd Refused Admittance to Park for Protest Meeting.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Sept. 19. (AP)—An attempt to hold a mass meeting here, nearly 600 striking miners this afternoon moved toward the Sangamon county line outside the jurisdiction of the Daily Breeze newspaper, and planned a protest meeting at Pawnee.

The strikers were refused admittance to Miners' Park here where they intended to take concerted action to protect Chicago strikers were responsible for the exploding of two bombs here Sunday, damaging offices of the Daily Breeze newspaper, and the building housing headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America, the union advocating the strike.

About 120 Illinois guardsmen flanked the park and turned back miners as they sought entrance. There were no disorders.

Called here on request of Sheriff Charles A. Weneke and various citizens, the militiamen arrived early today and began patrolling streets under police station.

A woman called the central police station in Los Angeles and said: "I was hiking on Hollywood mountain and near the Hollywood land sign I found a woman's shoe, jacket and purse. In the purse I found a suicide note. I looked down the mountain and saw a body. I don't want any publicity in this, so I wrapped up the purse, shoe and jacket and laid the bundle on the steps of the Hollywood police station."

The woman refused to identify herself and hung up.

Miss Entwistle left the home of her uncle Friday, telling him she was going to keep a "rendezvous with a friend." That, he told police, was the last he saw of her.

Police went to the scene and found the body, which lay at the county morgue unidentified until today when Entwistle said it was that of his niece.

The girl came here more than a year ago but movie success seemed just out of her grasp. First she was engaged for a leading role in support of Billie Burke in "The Mad Hopes."

Gandhi Defies Government; Will Begin Death Fast Today

Indian Leader Challenges Authorities To Move Him As He Prepares for Protest Against Law.

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 19. (UP)—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi tonight defied the Indian government to remove him from his cell in Yeroda prison, where, at midday tomorrow, he will begin his "fast unto death."

India's "great soul" is undertaking his hunger strike as a protest against Great Britain's communal settlement, involving separate electorates for the nation's "untouchables."

Bombay officials announced earlier in the day that the little brown national leader would be removed from the prison proper and placed in a bungalow inside the prison grounds. Certain restrictions, as to the number of visitors he might have, were imposed by Gandhi who characterized them as "humiliating conditions."

Accordingly, he challenged the government to remove him forcibly from his cell.

Under the government plan, Gandhi would be permitted to have only six visitors at a time in the bungalow without police surveillance.

Regardless of where he goes, he intends to abstain from all food until death overtakes him, and he reiterated today that there is small chance he will withdraw his decision. He will take his last food at the noonday meal and thereafter will eat or drink nothing except water, with salt or soda stirred into it.

Hindu leaders called on Gandhi today seeking his opinions on the communal settlement. He told them that he is prepared to consider a plan that would guarantee a certain number of legislative seats to the "untouchables," occupy the lowest level of the Indian caste system.

This guarantee of seats, Gandhi said, would be substituted for the separate electorates proposed by Great Britain.

Gandhi, who weighs less than 100 pounds, has been conditioning himself for his fast for several days. Gradually he has been reducing the amount of food in his diet, which consists of vegetables, fruits and goat's milk. He also has been refraining from his usual exercise in order to store up energy for the ordeal of his hunger strike.

FARMER-PICKETS INVADE NEW AREA

400 "Strikers" Detailed
To Block Minnesota
Highways to Produce.

WORTHINGTON, Minn., Sept. 19. (AP)—Picket lines of midwestern farmers attempting to bring about higher prices for their products reached into new territory today with more than 400 "strikers" guarding highways in this vicinity.

One farmer, S. V. Calvin, was escorted safely through the lines to the local market by county authorities after a scuffle with the blockaders, but other truckers were turned back.

Proceeding without sanction of the State Farmers' Holiday Association, the farmers armed themselves with clubs, wire cable, spiked machinery belts and steel girders.

Repeating that the purpose of the attempted blockade was to intercept its source, the flow of non-perishable products into the Sioux City, Iowa, area, M. B. Miller, vice chairman of the county holiday unit, said the front lines, however, were set up until "our national officers have notified me" of the Sioux City developments.

Picketing Discontinued.

Dispatches from there said picketing had been discontinued, but leaders of the county unit announced their intention of maintaining lines until definite confirmation was obtained.

The blockade here began under "professional" direction, but lapsed into a purely local affair. A truckload of experienced picketers from Ames, Iowa had assembled near here to give local patrolmen the benefit of their several weeks' duty on the front lines. However, after the Calvin incident, Sheriff Eldon Rowe announced only residents of the county could serve.

Attention throughout the states covered by the holiday association to-night was focused on the official order to begin Wednesday a drive to solidify the movement by intensive organization efforts down through township units.

Iowa farmers had the assurance of United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart that he would attend a meeting of farmers in a cornfield at Morrisville, Iowa, Wednesday.

Neb. farmers were urged to begin Wednesday withholding non-perishable produce from market, in a plea by Harry C. Parmenter, president of the Nebraska Farmers' Holiday Association.

Arnold Gilberts, president of the Wisconsin Farmers' Holiday Association, said his state was unjustly treated to strike effectively, but that farmers would be expected to keep live stock and grain from markets in sympathy with the general movement.

Gilberts said picketing would not be authorized in Wisconsin and that any one would be contrary to the wishes of state association officials.

3 STATES SELECT PARTY NOMINEES IN VOTING TODAY

New York, Massachusetts and Wisconsin All
To See Spirited Contests
for Nominations.

By the Associated Press.

The year's long run of state primaries for selection of national, state and local candidates, ends today with democratic and republican voting in New York, Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

After that party conventions in three states and a few scattered runoff primaries will complete the country's electoral lists for November.

Heavy voting is predicted by political leaders in the Wisconsin primaries because of the spirit campaign between Governor Philip La Follette and former Governor Walter J. Kohler for the republican gubernatorial nomination, and the vigorous contest between Senator John J. Blaine and John H. Chapple, Ashland editor, for the senatorial nomination.

Three democrats are seeking the nomination for governor, but for the senatorial choice F. Ryan Duffy is not opposed.

Selections for 17 of New York's 45 seats in the next house are at issue, together with many seats in the state legislature. The senatorial and gubernatorial candidates are to be selected at party conventions early in October.

Eight congressional nominations are being contested in Massachusetts. Governor Joseph B. Ely is without opposition for renomination by the democrats. Lieutenant Governor William Young is seeking the republican gubernatorial nomination and is opposed by two opponents, including Frank H. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston finance commission.

There is no senatorial election in the Bay State this year, but the record number of candidates for state and local office was broken with a total of 18,800 entries.

Prohibition figures as an important issue in some of the New York and Massachusetts congressional primaries.

French Leader Reported
To Have Given Renewed
Assurance of Support

PARIS, Sept. 19. (AP)—Authoritative American sources understand that Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Ambassador Walter E. Edge told Premier Herriot today that the people of the United States are inclined to believe Germany's recent move for equality in armaments was inopportune.

The senator and the ambassador discussed disarmament and the action taken by the German government at a luncheon given by the premier and attended also by J. Theodore Marinier, counselor to the American embassy. Minister of War Joseph Paul-Boncour and other French government officials.

At the conclusion of the luncheon was understood the senator and the ambassador informed M. Herriot that the United States government stands for progressive disarmament and the sanctity of treaties. It was understood they told him also the American people would prefer that the German problem be worked out within the framework of the disarmament conference. Germany has given formal notice that she will not participate in the conference further unless her arms demands are met.

Discussed Far East.

In addition to disarmament and the German problem, the conference was understood to have discussed informally the situation created in the far east by Japan's recognition of the new state of Manchukuo.

The Americans were believed to have emphasized they anticipated a strong stand by the powers at the League of Nations council meeting at which this situation will be taken up. They told M. Herriot, it was generally believed, that the United States is ready to support the League's action.

Before the conference, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in England, where he had helpful spade work in connection with both disarmament and the German problem.

Because the United States has announced it will not recognize territorial changes resulting from treaty violations, Washington is interested, it was said, in having the French representative on the League of Nations council insist upon the same sanctity for treaties respecting the far east as for those affecting Europe.

So far as disarmament is concerned, it was asserted that M. Herriot

MISSING RETURNS EXPECTED TODAY

Hamilton Undecided on Plans of Contest for Treasurer's Post.

Six missing county returns from Wednesday's primary are expected to be in the office of Miss Stella Akin, democratic state executive committee secretary, today and enable her to make the final tabulation which will show the winners in races apparently close.

The missing counties are Clarke, Upson, Dodge, Fulton, Richmond and Lanier—with a total of 24 county unit votes. Fulton returns were placed in the mails Monday.

Any contests, Miss Akin announced, will be referred to the state convention, which meets in Macon on October 4 and 5. Miss Akin's announce-

Vitamin A Concentrate Made More Accessible

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—(AP)—For the first time in history, a supply of the primary concentrate of vitamin A was assured to the world today at prices low enough for ordinary medical practice.

Heretofore, the vitamin was produced only in such minute quantities and at such great expense that only a few months ago it commanded a price equivalent to more than $11,000 a pound.

Revelation of a greater supply and a more "reasonable" price was made by the discoverers of a new process of extraction, Dr. A. F. O. Germann and his assistant, Dr. Harold M. Barnett, both connected with a Cleveland bio-chemistry laboratory.

The Germann-Barnett process the equivalent of a carload of vegetables, such as carrots, is required to produce an appreciable amount of the vitamin.

ment followed a special meeting of members of the executive committee Monday.

George B. Hamilton, candidate for treasurer, announced that he planned to contest returns which show M. L. Ledford, incumbent, to be in the lead for state treasurer by a margin of eight votes.

Hamilton said he had not determined whether he would lodge his protest with county committees by midnight Monday, as required by party rules, or take it direct to the state convention.

Saying that unless he was "legally and rightfully entitled to the nomination," Hamilton said he would not contest the election.

"I wish to thank my many loyal friends throughout Georgia who stood by me in the primary on September 14, and I am of the opinion that I am legally and rightfully nominated and will be so declared in the final tabulation. I do not want the office unless I can win it fairly and justly, and I am confident that there is no person in the whole state connected with the holding of the election or with declaring the result who would be disposed or inclined to give me the office by such means. However, I do most emphatically insist upon my just and legal rights as conferred by the people at the ballot box on September 14, and I respectfully submit that official returns will show that I was legally, fairly and honestly elected."

"Assuring the people of my high appreciation and pledging the same prompt and efficient service that I have rendered in this office during the past, I am,

Gratefully yours,
"M. L. LEDFORD."

Conner May Call
Sales Tax Session

PONTOTOC, Miss., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Governor Mike Conner today told an assemblage of Mississippians at Pontotoc that he will call the legislature into special session to increase the present state sales tax of 2 per cent to aid the counties of the state if he is shown that the people want the additional tax and will support it wholeheartedly.

The governor's statement came after five members of the legislature had assured the gathering of their support of the "Pontotoc plan," which is a 3 per cent sales tax with 3 per cent to go to the state and 2 per cent to the counties of the state, or a slight modification of that plan.

Representatives, supervisors and taxpayers from 15 counties were assembled for the governor's address and for a discussion of the advisability of preventing increased tax rates in Mississippi counties.

Officials To Gather
In Amendment Fight

About 1,000 city and county officials of Georgia will gather at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the state capital to launch a state-wide drive to defeat a proposed constitutional amendment restricting tax on intangibles to the state.

Key and George F. Longino Jr., chairman of the finance committee of Fulton county commission, Monday initiated attacks on the proposal, which, they claimed, would cost Atlanta and Fulton county "more than $1,000,000 a year."

The mayor has invited city and county officials to aid in the drive, pointing out that it will cost them millions of dollars in lost revenue.

City council Monday afternoon set up $300 to aid in the fight.

Family at Bedside
As Mrs. Garner Sinks

DETROIT, Texas, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The old colonial house of the Garners was in gloom tonight as its mistress, Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, lay critically ill, her life slowly ebbing away.

Late today physicians announced there had been no change in the pioneer lady's condition. Monday morning, however, it was said she had weakened considerably during the night and seemed to be gradually nearing the end.

All members of her immediate family, three sons and two daughters, were at her bedside. The last to arrive, John Nance, hurried here yesterday from Washington, where he had gone from his Uvalde, Texas, home to aid in the democratic presidential campaign.

BODIES OF DUBOIS, WIFE
REST IN TWIN GRAVES

BRAINTREE, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Two gray caskets containing the bodies of Charles E. DuBois, Brintree and Tuckahoe, N. Y., Jeweler, and his wife, were lowered today into twin graves in Blue Hill cemetery.

DuBois committed suicide Friday in a Quincy rooming house, five hours before the body of his wife was found in a concrete vault in the cellar of the DuBois summer place in Plymouth.

While the aged mother of the Jeweler, Cecile DuBois, of New York city, wept silently, and a handful of other relatives looked on, the Rev. Howard K. Bartow, of Christ Episcopal church, Quincy, read a simple ritual.

RELIEF OR REBELLION IS SEEN FOR FARMERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—"Farmers are going to have relief either by ballots or by violence," Howard Y. Williams, national director of the League for Independent Political Action, declared tonight after a two months' survey of the middle west.

"Governor Roosevelt is playing with dynamite if he does not have definite legislation in mind to fulfill the vague promises he made to agriculture in his 'Copeka address,'" Williams said.

"Farmers are now in no mood to be trifled with. In the 1928 campaign, Mr. Hoover told the farmers that if they would vote for him he would call a special session of congress to put agriculture on an equality with industry. The farmers know too well that his congress passed the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill that plunged agriculture still deeper into the mire."

"Many farmers are rebellious. They are ready for social revolt as the methods used in the farmers' strike indicate. These farmers have their backs to the wall."

"They feel that nothing could be worse than the situation in which they now find themselves. A few more dramatic mortgage sales of farms which have been held by the same family for two or three generations will start the explosion. American farmers will not accept passivity without a struggle in the spirit of 1776."

Indiana Town Seeking
Smaller Relief Fund

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Citizens of Richmond have reduced the amount of money they will seek in a bond issue for a community fund to provide for relief agencies and character-building organizations.

The announced goal is $70,230, which is $6,000 less than last year's figure, and $14,000 less than subscriptions of a year ago.

Carolina Strikers Return to Mills

HIGH POINT, N. C., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Strikes in the Stebbins mill here and in the Thomaston Chair Company at Thomaston, near here, ended today as the strikers went back to work under an agreement reached after the personal intervention of Governor O. Max Gardner Saturday.

The silk mill, which normally operates a double shift, opened with a single shift, but its officials said it would return to a double shift as soon as market conditions warranted. The strikers returned to work at a wage increase of 19 per cent. When they struck last month, they said their wages had been cut more than 50 per cent in the last three months. The mill employs about 600 persons.

The chair company opened eight of its plants, employing about two-thirds of the 1,200 men who struck. Others will be re-employed later as production requires. The strikers returned to work at the same wage scale prevailing when they struck.

Convict Injured.

Will Tate, negro convict, was in serious condition at Grady hospital Monday night from injuries he received Monday morning when a falling tree crushed him as a gang of prisoners worked in a field off Fairhaven circle. He received a broken leg and possible internal injuries.

Georgia Tech Opens New Session With Enrollment of 4,000 Students

Georgia Tech was the first of Atlanta's three colleges for men to open Monday morning at 8 o'clock when the school's forty-third annual session opened with approximately 4,000 students enrolled for the fall term.

All students were present except a few co-operatives and late comers. Emory University and Oglethorpe University will open this week with excellent enrollments reported by both institutions. The former will open classes on September 27 and Oglethorpe will officially open Wednesday with classes due to begin next Monday.

Because many of the students at Georgia Tech are in process of registration no exact enrollment figure could be given by the registrar Monday but indications are that some 4,000 will attend this term. Economic conditions caused many of the students to report late and work for them will begin within two weeks.

Approximately 700 freshmen reported for classes Monday while upper classmen, delayed by the depression, were still arriving. The school will follow the regular curriculum this year, according to Dr. M. L. Britain, president, including courses leading to 15 bachelor of science degrees. Several additions to the faculty were announced. Professor Charles A. Jones will succeed Professor H. Spencer Bushy as head of the textile engineering department. The military department has added Major Walter Moore and the naval unit has added Commander Edward J. Gillam, Lieutenant Commander Samuel H. Hurt and Lieutenant John P. Womble.

Pre-term announcement by Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, said the largest enrollment in history would start class work there next Monday.

EWING GOT RECEIPT FOR CAMPAIGN AID

Joseph O. Ewing, one of John A. Boykin's campaign supporters, Monday asked The Constitution to correct a statement he said William G. McRae, who opposed Boykin for solicitor-general in the primary, made during the campaign.

Ewing stated McRae said he held in his hand a receipt from the Atlanta Constitution that showed a man named Hogg had paid for an advertisement placed in The Constitution, McRae Monday denied he had made this statement, but that he did say he had had information that Hogg furnished the money to pay for the advertisement.

The Constitution accepted the advertisement and the money to pay for it from Ewing, giving him a receipt for the amount.

HEALED SEVERE
ECZEMA

"More than 35 years ago, when I was a child, I developed a severe case of eczema behind my left ear. In spite of all the remedies used the disease spread rapidly over my head. Finally our doctor, one of the best in Kansas City, told Mother to try Resinol Ointment as he knew it was good. It was wonderful and after using a full jar the affection was entirely healed. Since then I have been an ardent user of Resinol for burns, cuts, and all manner of skin affections, and have never known it to fail. There is nothing like it for the skin disorders of babies, it is so soothing and healing." (Signed) Mrs. O. S. Platt, 297 Carrollton Ave., Shreveport, Louisiana.

Piles Go Quick

Itching, bleeding or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it EEM-ROID. Jacobs Drug Stores and druggists everywhere sell EEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Pile misery (no money back—adv.)

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE FALL OF CONSTANTINOPLE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Thomas Webb... inspired by the savage slaughter of 5000 Christian defenders—at the hands of the vengeful, barbaric horde of 250,000 men under the ruthless Mohammed II—1453!

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies
... the mildest cigarette
you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, the he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

New Davies-Montgomery Picture Obtained for Reopening of Grand

Colonel E. A. Schiller, vice president in charge of operations of Loew's, Inc., and other prominent executives of the Loew organization and of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, film producers, will be in Atlanta on October 6 for the gala opening performance of the new Loew's Grand theater. Details concerning the opening were made public Monday.

The opening attraction will be the MGM picture, "Blondie of the Follies," with Marion Davies and Robert Montgomery in the principal roles and with Jimmy Durante, Billie Dove and other well-known players in the supporting cast. This picture has scored a tremendous box office success in New York and other cities where it has been shown, a fact which was largely responsible for its selection to open Atlanta's new theater.

The performance on Thursday evening, October 6, will be open to the public with no advance sale of tickets and no reserved seats, it was stated Monday. The regular performances on continuous performance schedule will start Friday morning, October 7.

Colonel Schiller is a former Atlanta resident and, in fact, still calls this city his real home, although he has made business headquarters in New York. In a message from New York yesterday, he said:

"Naturally it is a personal pleasure for me to have our organization erect in Atlanta so fine a theater. Atlanta has been 'home to me for many years—a home which New York has never supplanted—and to provide fine entertainment in the proper environment in Atlanta has always been my hope and ambition. I feel Atlanta will agree that Loew's Grand accomplishes just that. It is interesting to remember that in October, nearly twenty years ago, Marcus Loew opened the old Loew's Grand as his first theater in the south."

The Grand, it was announced, will operate on an "exclusive run" policy, together with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and United Artists pictures. This means that pictures shown at the Grand will not be shown again at any other Atlanta theater. There will thus be no "second run" or "neighborhood showings" in Atlanta of these attractions.

Among the early pictures booked for the Grand will be Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard and Fredric March in "Smilin' Thru"; Laurel and Hardy in their feature length picture, "Pack Up Your Troubles"; Joan Crawford and Walter Huston in "Rain"; Walter Huston in "Kongo"; Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in "Strange Interlude"; Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Prosperity"; "Grand Hotel" for its first popular price showing and others.

The new Grand is in every respect a beautiful theater. Special attention has been paid to the acoustics and a new method of wall construction has been adopted which sound engineers say will make practically perfect sound throughout the theater. There are 2,500 seats in the theater, including the orchestra and balcony floors. There is one balcony, with a loge across its front.

The decorations are modernistic in type and the entire appearance, comfort and environment of the new theater is going to come as a pleasant surprise to Atlanta theatergoers.

Lionel H. Keene, southern division manager for Loew's, Inc., while admitting Monday that the managerial personnel of the new house was already decided, would make no announcement as to whom the manager will be, other than to state that he is a well-known and highly successful showman who will be a welcome newcomer to Atlanta theater executive ranks.

INJURED BICYCLIST'S CONDITION IS "FAIR"

The condition of Grady Hucksby, 14, of 3480 Harding avenue, was reported as "fair" by Grady hospital physicians Monday night after he was struck down earlier in the day by a car said to have been driven by Mrs. J. E. Wilkins, also of Hapeville. The boy was riding a bicycle and no case was made against the driver of the car after she reported to police the accident was unavoidable. Young Hucksby received a broken arm and leg.

C. S. Hilliard, 40, of Hammond Park, was treated at Grady hospital Monday for injuries received when a tire blew out and plunged his car against a pole on Moreland way.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES ENLARGING CAMPAIGN

Hoover May Deliver Address in Farm Belt, Possibly in Iowa.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(UP)—President Hoover personally is inclined against a "swing-around-the-circle" stumping tour which is being urged upon him by some of his advisers as a means of accelerating the campaign in its final stages.

No final decision on this disputed point of campaign strategy is expected for a few days. It awaits a study of the reaction of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's present trip through the west. At this juncture, despite the pressure from some of his advisers, it appears likely the chief executive will confine himself to the three scheduled speeches at New York, Chicago and Minneapolis, with perhaps another in the heart of the farm belt, possibly at West Branch, Iowa, the president's birthplace.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who recently returned here from the west, is leading the drive for a sort of city-to-city canvass of the electorate by the president, which would take him to the Pacific coast. It is suggested that the chief executive end his tour at Palo Alto, awaiting the nation's decision from the electoral college in the lovely Spanish home which overlooks an arm of San Francisco bay.

Anti-Saloon Attorney Scores Butler's Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The state liquor traffic control plan advanced yesterday by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler was assailed in a statement today by Edward B. Dunford, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League of America.

The proposal by Dr. Butler to solve the drink problem by repealing the 18th amendment and providing for the sale of liquor through a system of government regulated dispensaries, he said, "is as futile and hopeless as it is inconsistent and impractical."

"While Dr. Butler declares it is essential to the success of any plan for state liquor traffic control that the eighteenth amendment be unconditionally repealed, those interested in the prevention of the effects of alcoholism are not concerned with the success of any plan for a state liquor traffic."

"They believe that alcohol is a narcotic poison and a habit-forming drug, and that no unit of government, state or national, has any moral right to license its sale or encourage its consumption."

"Even if Dr. Butler's plan were ideal, what guaranty can be or one else who favors the repeal of the eighteenth amendment furnish that New York or any other state would enact his so-called liquor control plan?"

The Tragedy of Paul Bern

His Love for Barbara La Mar

This is the third of a series of four articles discussing the strange personality of Paul Bern.

BY J. C. MOFFITT.

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 19.—According to Carey Wilson, scenario writer and intimate friend and confidant of Paul Bern, suicide husband of Jean Harlow, Bern achieved his greatest emotional expression in his love for Barbara La Mar.

After that actress' marriage proved a failure and she was ill, she sent for Bern. Bern was gone and she wanted to sell her Rolls Royce. Bern pretended to negotiate a sale for several times the car's value. He gave Barbara a money and placed the car in a garage.

"He was tenderly devoted to her," Wilson said, "and he did a great deal to make her last days more comfortable."

On another occasion Bern showed himself no fair-weather friend to a woman who had attributed to him the death of the mysterious death of William Desmond Taylor he snatched up his hat and rushed to the home of Mabel Norman. He found her surrounded by questioners, all shouting queries at her. Bern brandished his cane and threatened to kill them if they didn't allow her a few hours' sleep. Throughout the investigation he was her advisor and friend.

"Freud and psychoanalysts are popular authors among the scenario writers and executives of Hollywood, who spend many hours trying to justify the behavior of fictional characters," Wilson said, "most that he psychobiologically cataloging their friends. To all of them, Paul Bern was a 'Christ' figure. This, in the jargon of the 'Freudians,' meant that he achieved his greatest ecstasy in adopting the mental attitude that he was 'a man of sorrow.'"

Wilson said he was the popular opinion in Hollywood that Bern sought out the woes of others and got a curious, diverted elation from making them his own.

"His character ran to extravagant totals that rivaled the amount of money he spent on women. A couple of years ago I helped him make out his income tax report," Wilson recalled. "A good 40 per cent of his year's salary had gone to friends in personal loans. When I asked him about this, he said he was kidding himself to call these things loans. He knew he never would get any of the money back, so we put it down as 'gifts.'"

Bern's life seems to have been filled with such instances. Carey Wilson says he appears actually to have enjoyed sharing the sufferings of other people.

There was a man in the reading department at the studio, a small salary, unimportant fellow, who brought himself to Bern's attention.

Air Travel in July Shows Big Increase

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Air transport operations in the United States during July were increased over those in June, in the number of passengers carried, express carried, miles flown, and passenger miles flown, according to reports from the 31 companies operating.

Miles flown by these scheduled air lines during the month were 4,298,282; express carried totaled 87,591 pounds and passenger miles flown were 14,774,708. A passenger mile is the equivalent of one passenger flown one mile.

PROFESSOR DEFENDS NEW TESTAMENT AIMS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The New Testament is found to be a collection of tracts to attack various problems of the struggling Christian religion in a study of the Bible by Ernest Findlay Scott, professor of Biblical theology at Union Theological Seminary.

"There is not one of the writings," Dr. Scott says, "which cannot be linked with some practical aim. They are occasional writings, each intended to meet some given situation. It may almost be said that they belong to the class of pamphlets rather than literary works."

Dr. Scott holds that Mark's gospel probably was written about 70 A. D. by John Mark, a disciple of Paul, mentioned in the Acts of the Apostles, and that the gospel, according to Matthew, was written not by the Disciple Matthew, the publican, but by a later Matthew who probably lived at Antioch.

M. L. DUGGAN THANKS VOTERS FOR SUPPORT

Although defeated in Wednesday's primary election, State School Superintendent M. L. Duggan, in a statement expressing appreciation for the vote he received, said that he hoped to continue to render "substantial services to education and the state." His statement said:

"The hearty support and the expressions of confidence and endorsement from school people and friends of education throughout the state and the south, both before and since the primary, are most sincerely appreciated. The educational interests of Georgia's 900,000 children far outweigh any personal or political interests. My friends may be assured that although 'out,' I am not 'down,' and I shall still hope to render substantial services to education and the state. I shall have further messages to the people and to their legislative representatives at later dates."

FURNITURE WORKERS END VIRGINIA STRIKE

PULASKI, Va., Sept. 19.—(AP)—At a conference this morning of employees of the Coleman Furniture Company, who went on strike last Tuesday, protesting against a wage cut, the strike was called off and the men will be re-employed without prejudice as rapidly as conditions permit. Between 50 and 60 returned to work this morning and others will be taken on as the various departments of the factory resume production.

140,000 Yards of Cloth
Given Red Cross Here

The Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross has received a total of 140,000 yards of cloth from the national organization to be made into clothing for the needy of Fulton county, Miss Margaret Feiner, secretary of the chapter, said Monday.

Announcement from Washington Monday said that a total of 20,005,508 yards of cloth exchanged for cotton obtained from the federal fabric board was being sent to the various chapters.

Miss Feiner said a staff of 40 women was working daily making the cloth into garments which are being distributed through local relief agencies. He said that the cloth furnished the local chapter would last for several months.

BROOKHART TO SEEK RE-ELECTION IN IOWA

Discontented Farmers Mass for Cornfield Rally To Support Senator.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(UP)—Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart sped westward tonight toward an Iowa corn field to place his political future in the hands of 1,000 discontented farmers.

Defeated in the republican primary and apparently headed for private life, Brookhart may decide to gamble on running as an independent and riding into the senate on a wave of agrarian dissatisfaction.

His decision will be made Wednesday when he reaches a stubble field outside of Moline, Iowa. Already hundreds of farmers, caught in the whirlwind of the depression and the farm strike, are on the march for Moline. There they hope to find a Moses to lead them into the promised land of prosperity, and indications were tonight that they were pinning their faith on Brookhart.

A telegram, phrased in the homespun language of the farm belt, arrived at Brookhart's office today. In 20 minutes he had cleared his desk and announced his intention of going before the farmers in one final plea for continuation of his political life.

2 DEAD IN CRASH
IN ENGLISH CHANNEL

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(UP)—Dense fogs in the English channel caused several ships to collide Sunday with a death toll of at least two. Two men were drowned when the British steamer Ravenscraig sank after a collision with the steamship Baron Polwarth.

More than 250 passengers on the channel ship Canterbury escaped injury after the vessel struck the freighter Yorkbrook.

Now we can get back to work, he said. "We have done the right thing."

Another time Bern became violently upset because a man who formerly had been a "big shot" in the film wrote from New York that he was going to lose his car. Bern didn't have the hundred and fifty dollars needed to save it, and he fretted over the matter until it began to detract from his efficiency. This time Wilson lent him the money.

Only a short time ago Bern worried about a chorus girl who appealed to him for aid, and finally he raised the money to send her to Havana and buy her costumes for a revenue there, according to Wilson, and the scenario writer says he understood Bern's acquaintance with this girl had been very brief.

Women To Discuss Drive for Roosevelt

Plans for conducting a campaign in the county in behalf of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker John N. Garner will be discussed at a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of Fulton county at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel.

Miss Stella Akin, of Savannah, secretary of the democratic executive committee, will address the meeting, which will be presided over by Mrs. Stacey E. Hill, president of the club. Announcement of the meeting, made Monday, included an invitation to all Fulton county women interested in the success of the democratic party to attend Wednesday's session.

WILLIAM B. HARRISON PLEDGES BEST EFFORT

Pledging a ceaseless effort to justify the confidence shown him in Wednesday's primary, William B. Harrison, successful candidate to succeed himself as comptroller general, Monday issued a statement in which he said:

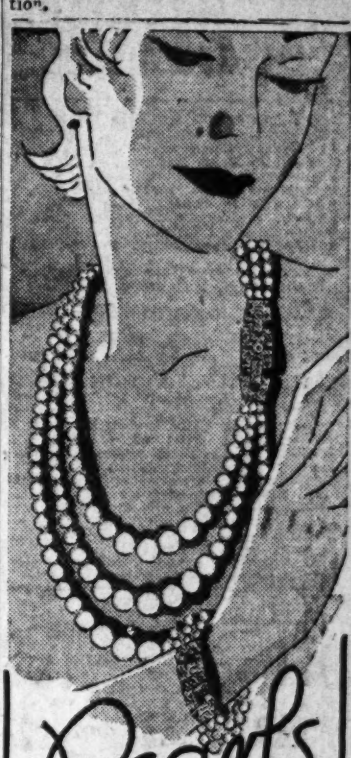

"There are not words with which I can adequately express my profound appreciation to the people of Georgia for the magnificent endorsement by them of my official administration of the affairs of the office of comptroller general. I can and do pledge to my fellow Georgians an earnest and honest administration of the duties upon me throughout the period they have re-elected me to serve."

PERRY READY TO CALL COTTON RATE HEARING

A hearing on cotton rates will be held in Augusta next Thursday if and when a petition from the Atlantic Coast Line railroad is received by the Georgia public service commission. James A. Perry, chairman, announced Monday. Perry said he assumed the petition, which the railroad has said it would file, was in the mails.

Carl R. Cunningham, traffic manager for American cotton manufacturers, explained that the Louisville &

Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroads wish to be relieved of hauling Atlantic Coast Line cotton under a special rate devised to meet motor truck competition.

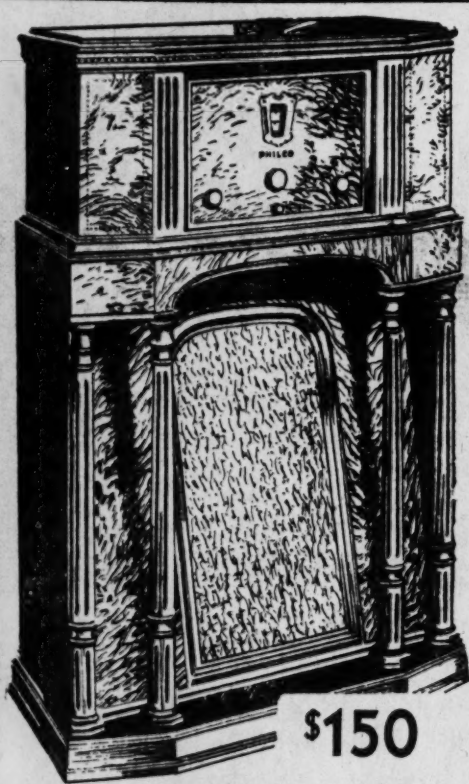

Paris revived them because they interpret the demure charm of our Victorian fashions so well.

On the Air Today

"Smiling Ed" McConnell, the "one-man show" to be featured every Tuesday and Thursday over Columbia network and through WGST at 9:30, was discovered in Atlanta. McConnell filled in for an artist who failed to appear. "Smiling Ed" is now familiar to listeners throughout the south and east and today will broadcast the first of a new series.

Chick Wilson, who has been off the air for a week on account of illness, is again bringing his songs, his cheerful and original patter and a bit of poetry to the listening 12 o'clock audience. Lately Chick has been reviving old songs and today's "souvenir" will be "My Gal Sal."

Ann Leaf will offer "Merry Widow Waltz" as an organ solo and will join with Mark War-now's string trio in a rendition of Beethoven's "Minuet" during the Charlie Musical Revue, to be heard over the Columbia network and WGST from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. today.

Ben Alley and Helen Nugent, "Sweethearts of the Air," will join with the rest of the ensemble to offer "Every Little Bit of Me" and a medley of selections from "Cat and the Fiddle." The tenor solo, "Leave Me Tonight," by Ben Alley, and a short fashion talk by Dorothy Chase will complete the program.

Wallace B. Donham, dean of the Harvard Business school, and Loring A. Schuler, editor of the Ladies Home Journal, will be the speakers scheduled for the broadcast of the second and final luncheon of the Boston conference on retail distribution, direct from the University Club, Boston, this morning from 11 to 12, over the Columbia chain through WGST. Mr. Schuler has chosen for the subject of his talk, "What Does the Consumer Want?" while Dean Donham will speak on a subject of general interest, as yet untitled.

SERVICE CHARGE COMES UP TODAY

Woodruff Statement Assures General Inquiry Into Assessment.

A general investigation of the service charge to consumers of electric current was assured Monday when Public Service Commissioner Albert J. Woodruff, in a card of thanks for his re-election, said he believed the commission would work out a solution "that will be understood and appreciated."

A motion for an inquiry will be lodged this morning when the commission meets and will have the backing of Commissioners Jule W. Felton, Perry T. Knight and Walter R. McDonald.

Commissioner Felton Saturday issued a statement in which he said that the commission, at its next meeting, would consider the propriety of continuing the service charge. Sunday, James A. Perry, commission chairman, said that hearings would be held to determine whether it should be retained or not.

In explanation of the hearings recommended in the large cities, Perry said the service charge had enabled the commission to order reductions in the kilowatt hour charge from 9 cents to 5.66 cents.

The service charge was one of the major issues in the recent primary contest for two seats on the commission. Opponents of Commissioners Woodruff and Felton, both successful, did they would, if elected, make an effort to abolish it.

Commissioner Woodruff said in his statement: "Surely no successful candidate for office has ever had more reason for sincere expression of appreciation than myself. The overwhelming majority accorded me today is a tribute to the confidence and understanding is sufficient evidence that our splendid citizens will always do the right thing when they know the facts. The election is over, and with renewed obligations to those contributing to the landslide accorded me and with the best of feeling toward

Dr. C. B. Davenport, Noted Scientist, Describes Development of Child

One of the foremost scientists in human heredity, Dr. Charles B. Davenport, here summarizes for the Associated Press the leading points in child development. Dr. Davenport is the director of the department of genetics, Carnegie Institution of Washington, and president of the International Congress of Eugenics, which met in New York in August.

BY DR. CHAS. B. DAVENPORT.

CARNEGIE INSTITUTION OF WASHINGTON, COLD SPRING HARBOR, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The developing child reveals the history of the race.

The student of human heredity is interested in the development of children—how they grow up and, as they grow, gradually reveal the family traits.

This study has been an individual one, because children differ in the way they grow up depending upon the kind of determiners of growth and development of genes, which they carry.

Republicans Probe Election in Maine

HOULTON, Maine, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An investigation for the attorney-general's department came to Aroostook county today seeking depositions from the election officials in charge of 10 voting precincts in last Monday's state election, in which a democratic governor and two democratic congressmen were elected by narrow margins.

The investigator, United States Commissioner Richard K. Gould, of Portland, declined to explain the object of his inquiry. Attorney-General Clement F. Robinson said in Portland that Gould, who is associated with him in his Portland law office, was in the northern part of the state to see his representative, but he would not disclose the nature of his mission.

Aroostook county is part of the third district, in which, on the face of unofficial returns, John G. Love, back, democratic congressional candidate, defeated former Governor Ralph O. Brewster, republican, 34,369 to 33,105. Brewster, defeated by the public gubernatorial candidate, carried Aroostook by a margin of 1,378 over Louis J. Brann, democratic governor-elect.

The 10 precincts covered by Gould's investigation, gave generous majorities to both Brann and Uterback.

TRUCE AGREEMENT DEFENDED BY BOLIVIA

Paraguay Ready To Cease Hostilities, in Chaco, Conditionally.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An army statement today said Bolivia's conditional acceptance of the American neutrals' commission request for a truce in the Gran Chaco fighting "was not a sign of weakness but a consequence of Bolivia's pacifist spirit to settle the conflict by lawful means."

The government yesterday answered the note from the commission in Washington, D. C., by agreeing to end the conflict over the disputed Chaco region if Paraguay agreed beforehand to do likewise.

The Bolivian army chief of staff described the resistance of Bolivian troops in Fort Boqueron to "continuous attacks for 10 days" as a victory. He denied reports Bolivia had ordered a general mobilization.

PARAGUAY IS WILLING TO CEASE HOSTILITIES

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Paraguay today said it was willing to cease hostilities in the Chaco jungles, but must insist upon proper security before negotiating any agreement.

The ministry of war issued a bulletin today stating Paraguayan troops in the Fort Boqueron sector of the disputed Gran Chaco district had repulsed Bolivian attempts to break through the lines at Castillo and Yucra.

COLOMBIAN SENATE APPROVES DEFENSE BILL

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 19.—(AP)—While public demonstrations demanding war with Peru continued tonight, the senate unanimously approved a $10,000,000 national defense bill on third reading and it was sent to the house.

The action followed the reported seizure by Peruvians of Letimbe, the Amazon river port city ceded to Colombia by Peru in a boundary treaty.

The bill would authorize the government to arrange a credit of $10,000,000 to be used for national defense.

BRAZILIANS ROUT REBELS AFTER 7-HOUR BATTLE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The government announced tonight federal troops, closing around Campanis, had repelled a counter-attack and routed Sao Paulo rebels south of Ampara, after a seven-hour battle.

Rebel losses were reported to be heavy. Superiority of federal artillery was said to have been a deciding factor in the engagement.

Earlier government reports said Campanis, an important railroad center leading to the Sao Paulo capital and the coast, was being evacuated. It is about 50 miles from Sao Paulo, the state capital, and 87 miles northwest of Santos.

Rebels in the state of Mato Grosso, to the westward, were reported to have left over 100 dead after a fruitless attack on federal forces. Fighting was continuing in the vicinity of Porto Murtinho, on the Paraguay river near the meeting point of the Paraguay, Bolivia, and Brazil borders.

FREE HOSPITALIZATION BY U. S. IS HIT BY A. M. A.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Complaint against government hospitalization for private citizens was voiced today by William C. Woodward, representing the American Medical Association, before the house committee investigating government competition.

"The federal government," he said, "is now buying medical and hospital services at the expense of the taxpayer and is giving these services to selected persons, rich and poor, for the treatment of diseases and injuries not incurred in the line of any public duty, either civil or military, and not in the discharge of any obligation whatever owed by the federal government to the beneficiaries."

"Government competition of this character will tend further to undermine the morale of the medical professions, to hinder its developments, and to leave the people without adequate medical service in time of need, and without adequate medical resources in case of military necessity."

ONE DEAD, ONE MISSING IN ARMY PLANE MISHAP

HONOLULU, Sept. 19.—(AP)—One soldier is dead, another missing and two are in a hospital today as a result of the forcing down of an army bomber on the treacherous waters between Oahu and Molokai yesterday.

The body of Corporal John Hart, Oakland, Cal., was found tangled in the cords of his unopened parachute.

John W. Long (R. F. D. 3, Elizabethton, N. C.), was missing.

Lieutenant John C. Kilborn and Sergeant Stephen Rialas were rescued by the Japanese Sampo Maru from the bomber's rubber raft which the pair inflated after the plane overturned.

S. C. COLLEGES FACE SHORTAGE OF FINANCES

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 19.—(UP)—Because of a shrinkage of $1,250,000 in estimated state revenues as of August 31, Comptroller General A. J. Beattie, of South Carolina, has announced that state colleges and other governmental functions face suspension of activities.

Fifteen per cent of the estimated revenue will not be received, Beattie said, producing a financial impasse in which departments and institutions which failed to restrict their expenditures to 85 per cent, advised by the state finance committee last May, "will have their vouchers marked 'no funds available.'"

The state expects to collect $8,500,000 this year, Beattie said, including $1,000,000 in property taxes not due until October 15. The annual appropriations total $9,750,000.

AUGUSTAN ARRESTED FOR ATTEMPTED THEFT

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A youth who identified himself as George Meade, 19, of 525 Thirteenth street, Augusta, Ga., was arrested Monday and charged with assault, attempted robbery and violation of the anti-firearms law after two men had tried to hold up a clerk in a downtown shoe store.

John Nickum, 22, no home, was captured after a chase in which a policeman threatened to shoot him. The clerk, Arthur Sinnott, said they entered the store and asked to see a pair of shoes. While he was attending to Nickum, he said, Meade struck him over the head with a revolver.

He downed his assailant with a blow to the jaw and gave the alarm. A partially loaded revolver was found on the floor.

New York's New Mayor Closes 3 Burlesque Shows as Immoral

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Turning for a brief moment from matters of finance to morals, Mayor Joseph V. McKee today placed an official ban against burlesque shows in West Forty-second street, the heart of Broadway.

Acting on a report by Commissioner of Licenses James F. Geraghty, he ordered that the licenses of two houses be revoked, and police prepared to place the order into effect tomorrow by stationing policemen at the doors to see that the order is obeyed.

The commissioner's investigation followed protests from the clergy, civic organizations and property owners along the street.

"New York city has no place for the fifth these theaters are purveying," declared the mayor. "They created immorality. They had a bad influence. And they lessened property values in the section, a matter which is of less importance than the issue of morality."

Burlesque, which for more than a year had not been shown at any theater in the Broadway district, had enjoyed a marked revival. "Barkers" on the sidewalks and photographic displays in front of the theaters in addition to the actual performances were among the subjects of complaints.

The mayor, however, in ordering the two theaters closed made it plain he was not setting himself up as a censor of the theater.

"The standards of the theater are set by the people themselves," he said, "and I am not laying down any special rules for the guidance of the theaters. I certainly have no intention of setting myself up as a censor."

Police Commissioner Mulrooney expressed himself as greatly pleased with the action taken by the mayor.

He said he had told the mayor the burlesque houses were breeding places for all kinds of vice; that the streets near by were infested with runners for vice resorts of all kinds.

A protracted hearing over the question of the burlesque theaters was held early this summer before Commissioner Geraghty. At that time the complaints of the various organizations were heard and the theater owners given an opportunity to refute the charges. The commissioner's report resulted from these hearings.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—(AP) Veterans of the War Between the States gathered here for the 68th annual encampment of the G. A. R., spent a day visiting the places where Abraham Lincoln once walked and worked, but already the serious business of the gathering—selection of next year's convalescent city—made bids for their attention.

Only two cities have made formal invitations. They are St. Paul, runner-up for the honor last year, and Grand Rapids, Mich., site of the 1925 and 1927 encampments. Long Beach, Cal., withdrew its invitation until 1934.

PHILLIPS, DEAN IN NEW POSTS AS TECH WORKS

Former Shifted To End, Latter Sent To Fullback.

By Jack Troy.

Jack Phillips, stellar freshman back of last season, has been shifted from fullback to end and Norris Dean, the blood charger, who has been running at tackle, has been converted into a fullback, it was revealed in Monday's practice of the Georgia Tech football squad.

Coach Alexander announced the change primarily as an experiment. There is a lot of experimenting going on in the jacket camp. Fact is there are only about three players who have any assurance at all that they will be in the starting eleven that plays Clemson here October 1 in the opening game of Tech's season.

Captain Monk Neblett, center; Ben Cherry, fullback, and Jerry Goldsmith, end, are assured of varsity positions. But outside of these players the fight is on.

The jacket squad is looking better and with the keen competition that exists for varsity positions the spirit is great. The players are on their toes, battling.

Rain greeted the Jackets as they started out at the Rose bowl. But the work went ahead. There was tackling, blocking and signal practice in abundance. Particular attention was devoted to perfecting running plays and a passing game.

Coach Alexander, who was aided by Jack Cannon and Bobby Dodd, used many different combinations in line and backfield.

Jap Hart, Galloway, Shorty Roberts, Cherry, Dean, Gooding, Davis and McArthur were among the backs who are being given a lot of attention.

The Jackets were kept at work in dummy scrimmage and one for next. Offensive and defensive teams lined up, with offensive drills being stressed in the main.

There is considerable work to be done in the passing department of the eleven before the opening game, but occasionally a back got off an aerial that was timed perfectly with the receiver. This would draw the commendation of Bobby Dodd, one of the best passers in the United States, who is by way of being the chief developer of the Jackets' overhead game.

Non-line coach, is developing a strong forward wall.

Coch Alexander announced three scrimmages for this week and one for next, which is, of course, the week of the Jackets' coming-out party with Clemson.

TOM JONES WINS.

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Tommy Jones, veteran Georgia welterweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Marty Hawk, of Miami, at the Cuban Club tonight when Referee Irah Dicks refused to permit Hawk to come out for the eighth round because of a badly cut left eye.

Petrels Scrimmage Today, Tomorrow

Scrimmages are scheduled for the Oglethorpe Petrels today and tomorrow as a measure of preparation for Friday night's opening game with Howard College at Ponce de Leon.

The showing of the backs in these drills will go far toward determining the starting backfield. The Petrel forward wall is hardly subject to change. A regular Monday workout was observed yesterday.

Coch Harry Robertson's main worries are over the petrels' chances that can be expected of the ends and center in regular season action. One end is untried and the other has been shifted from center to a wing position to take care of a vacancy.

THE SPORTLIGHT By Krautman Rice

Charlie Yates Will Be Great Golfer With More Experience, Grant Rice Says.

"Now that another amateur golf championship is finished and checked out," writes an observer, "who is the ranking amateur golfer in the world?"

There are several factors to be considered in any such summing up. For example:

1. Length and direction of the tee.
2. Iron play.
3. Putting.
4. Experience.

If you include these various factors, I should say that two of the best are Francis Ouimet and Ross Somerville, the new champion. Ouimet's record is amazing. He has gone a long way in more than a dozen championships. He is longer and straighter from the tee than I have ever seen him before.

Somerville played fine golf for many years. He is an all-around shot maker and a determined competitor. His work with the irons, especially, lifts him above the mass. There is no better iron player in amateur ranks.

The Younger Crop.

Among the younger stars there are four who remain on high ground—Goodman, McCarthy, Seaver and Moreland.

Johnny Goodman made the best showing of the four at Five Farms, but McCarthy has had the best three-year average of the quartet—Merion, Beverly and Five Farms.

Goodman's ability is so extremely quiet and retiring that his fine golf too often has been overlooked. Goodman beat him by one hole in a 36-hole match, but Goodman needed more than one hole to save himself against slightly staidier golf.

McCarthy and Goodman are more seasoned under fire than Seaver and Moreland, but the latter two show just as much promise. If these four were tangled up at match play it would be anybody's victory. But McCarthy and Goodman are a trifle better swingers, closer to the ideal of perfect form.

All Johnny Fischer needs to be added to this list is a little more experience. Fischer is one of the best shot makers of the lot and one of the best all-around golfers from any angle. As a guess, I think his swing appeals more to such critics as Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen than that of any of the others. I know this pair were extremely enthusiastic about his play.

Young Yates.

Among the coming younger stars, one of the most promising is Charlie Yates, the 19-year-old Atlanta native. Yates is now a tall, slender kid, just coming into his own. He qualified among the leaders, won his first match and gave McCarthy a great fight.

Yates is quite long off the tee, a good iron player and a sound putter. He can also stick around. After he was 2 down to McCarthy, he played the next 12 holes in 3 under even 45, which is not exactly quitting.

Yates also has more ability to relax than most of the others. Here is an example. When he was 1 down to McCarthy along the stretch, Mac hit a brilliant iron shot which Mac hit so the true test.

"Whoops, doctor," Yates said to the referee, "I'll have a tough time getting inside of that one." And after that he played a fine shot fairly close. Young Charlie was still whistling cheerily along the course, even when he was down, there was no sign of stage fright or tension in his first championship. He should be one of the best with more experience.

How Many Will Stick?

A year ago at Beverly several stars crashed through, only to fall by the wayside at Five Farms.

How many who broke through last week will be on hand next fall when another title party arrives?

Fischer and Yates look to be the more promising. But another good-looking club swing is McClure, of Shreveport. He did well enough to rank among the best shot makers in the bunch.

Correct swinging must be the foundation for consistent play. Any pretty good golfer can do well for a day or even for several days. But time is the true test.

The faulty swingers are sure to pile on additional kinks and to break down under pressure—not because they lack out control, but because they can't keep forcing an incorrect swing to handle the job against an opponent who is hitting the ball in the right way.

LONDOS' TITLE IS RICH PRIZE IN MATCH HERE

Champion Meets Clink-
stock Tonight; Jones
Meets Zaharias.

One of the richest prizes the world of sport affords, namely the heavy-weight wrestling championship, will be dangled before the hungry gaze of Jim Clinkstock, 235-pound Indian grappler, for two hours or less tonight at the city auditorium.

Jim London, monarch of the mat world for more than two years past, will risk his title and the more than $200,000 yearly net profit he has made it yield against the colossal Cherokee in the feature match on Henry Weber's second indoor card of the season.

Commanding almost equal interest among Atlanta fans is the one-hour limit semi-windup tonight, which brings together Paul Jones, the Texas Twister and local favorite here, and George Zaharias, the Colorado Greek.

Neither of these has ever failed to supply more than ample excitement for the clientele, and a meeting between them should furnish one of the great matches of the year.

A brief preliminary will start the card at 8:15 o'clock, and another opened at 8:30 in order to care for the capacity house which seems assured.

Often as London has appeared here, it is seldom he has been called upon to face so formidable a foe as Clinkstock is expected to prove. The Indian has been in the game a number of years, but it has only been during the past few months that he has attained the zenith of his powers. Successive victories over the best men who Weber could bring against him here, interrupted only by a draw with Jim McMillen, have thoroughly established Clinkstock's worthiness of a chance at the title.

Remarkably fast of foot for so large a man, the Cherokee star is a real fighter with unusual strength and endurance. All the standard holds of the game are at his command, but he has shown aptitude with the flying body scissors. Only recently he bested Paul Jones, long known as the master of the scissors, in a battle here.

Owing to the large guarantees demanded by London, the free list has been suspended for this show, Weber announces. Tickets will be on sale until 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the line of Carter Drug Company and the Piedmont Hatters. Ladies will be admitted for one dollar.

Home Run Baker Slugging Feature In 1913 Flag Series

1913—MILLION-DOLLAR
INFELD.

Stuffy McInnis succeeded Harry Davis as first baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics and the Mack.

In 1913, had that wonder of baseball history—the "Million-Dollar" infield.

McInnis at first, Eddie Collins at second, Frank (Home Run) Baker at third, and Jack Barry at short.

McInnis at first, Eddie Collins at second, Frank (Home Run) Baker at third, and Jack Barry at short.

Home Run Baker was the batting star of the series, outitting every one, and in the first game, he socked one of the specialties—a crashing home run—breaking up the Giants' defense.

This series was a great personal tragedy for Christy Mathewson, John McGraw's graying master moundsman. In his first world series effort, the late great star pitched one of the best games of his career—but the New Yorkers failed to solve the deceptive slants of Plank and maddened two hits, one of them by Mathewson himself. So Big Six lost his last big game.

This series also saw the passing of John McGraw's second great New York team, which had won three pennants in a row but could not win a world series.

Al Brown Kayoes Foe, Retains Title

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Al Brown, Panama, who is generally recognized as bantamweight champion of the world, knocked out Emilie (Spider) Pladner, of France, in the first round of a 15-round championship bout here tonight. Brown weighed 117 3/4; Pladner 118.

The six-foot negro ended Pladner's championship aspirations with two punches after only 2 minutes and 21 seconds of fighting.

As the fight opened Brown suddenly found an opening and shot home a hard right that sent Pladner down for a count of six.

BARFOOT TO OPPOSE HERRING OF BEAUMONT IN MOUND IN OPENER.

By Jimmy Jones.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 19.—The conquering Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern league arrived here about six o'clock for the Dixie series opener tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock, central time, after an all-day ride through the rice fields and sugarcane bottoms of Louisiana, a steady drizzle of rain falling in the night.

Bert Niehoff's men piled gladiolously out of the Pullmans to be welcomed by the Beaumont American Legion drum and bugle corps, and a noisy throng of Beaumont citizens. What was more inviting was the promise of fair weather for the opening game tomorrow at Stuart stadium, named for Rube Stuart, the Beaumont owner, an ex-Texas mule skinner who arose to pre-eminence in the baseball world.

Beaumont officials announced a virtual sell-out of the 8,500 seating capacity. They estimated an opening day crowd of 8,000 paid admissions. Through some devious channel the lies had been gained that this city of some 75,000 (pre-war census) situated in the southeast corner of the Lone Star state, was not much of a baseball town. If the welcome to the city and the Beaumont owner, an ex-Texas mule skinner who arose to pre-eminence in the baseball world.

McCrimmon Leaves

appointing in Drill.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 19.—Harry Mehe reversed the order of things today by placing his Red Devils of Saturday on the offensive against the fourth team but achieved results that were as disappointing as the performance of his so-called first team in the first scrimmage of the year.

It took the Red Devils, who are not really the Red Devils since the team is composed of several young men of excellent varsity calibre, about ten plays to take the ball thirty yards down field. Arranged against them were the new Red Devils, composed of several young hopefuls who are not quite as heavy as the ex-Reds but who make up for it in fight that they lack in weight.

Fast and real diagnosis of the trouble with the boys in the scrimmages today and Saturday rests in the fact that they are not trying. This, coupled with the fact that they have at times displayed an amazing ignorance of what to do, has resulted in two miserable exhibitions of football.

The scrimmage today lasted 45 minutes. High spots in the maneuvers were the first two plays, which were the result of a play called by the coaches, the limited Mail, and Marion Gaston, reserve left halfback. Al Minot, tackle-halfback, added a little effort of his own when he speared off left tackle for sixty yards in perhaps the best run seen so far during practice. While the scrimmage lasted the first two teams can signal along the side line.

Today's offensive lineup had Ted Vetter at center, Hut Parks and McInnis, guards; Jack Thorne and Crawford, tackles; and Jack and Maxwell and Roy Collier, ends. The backfield had Jack Griffith, quarterback; Marion Gaston and Al Minot, halfbacks; and Joe Crawford, fullback, arrayed against them were Tom Parkinson, center; Dykes and Evans, guards; Jacobson and Murray, tackles; and Crawford and Jack and Maxwell and Roy Collier, ends. The backfield had Jack Griffith, quarterback; Marion Gaston and Al Minot, halfbacks; and Joe Crawford, fullback, arrayed against them were Tom Parkinson, center; Dykes and Evans, guards; Jacobson and Murray, tackles; and Crawford and Jack and Maxwell and Roy Collier, ends.

The scrimmage was preceded by an hour's practice on the fundamentals about which the boys seemed a little dim Saturday. Rex Enright thought that the Red Devils were not ready for a half-hour in an effort to reach the point where they can give their backs a rest and be ready to play the backfield's pass defense also came in for some attention. The linemen got their share of work on fundamentals. Under Coaches Shier and Smith the ends practiced taking out the opposition, while the tackles and guards did the same under Ted Twomey and Rex Leathers.

Charles McCrimmon, reserve tackle of last fall, has quit the squad and left town, presumably for his Miami, Fla., home.

No morning workout will be held Tuesday. A 2 o'clock lecture will precede the afternoon meeting of the team, with the varsity set for a scrimmage by the end of the week.

Buster Mott, the scourge of New York University, reported for practice today and took his first workout of the year with the team. Mott, a star center, is expected to be ready to scrimmage by the end of the week.

Charming Manikins Display Modish Costumes and Millinery Before Interested Spectators at Muse's Brilliant Fashion Show

Charming manikins paraded before interested spectators at the brilliant fashion show given on the fifth floor of George Muse and Company on Monday afternoon, displaying the intriguing styles of the moment.

BY ANNIE LOU HARDY.

The gowns and wraps of 1932 will prove an irresistible temptation to Atlanta women, as exemplified in the autumn fashion revue held yesterday afternoon in the fifth floor salon of the George Muse Clothing Company. The showing included advance models of the new season's styles, as well as choice adaptations from the foremost French couturiers. Acting as manikins for the revue were a group of prominent young Atlanta maids and matrons, who were selected for the style with which they choose and wear their costumes, the group including Mrs. Turner Jones, Misses Mary Ann Carr, Mary Meador Goldsmith, Jean Lucas, Mary Adair Howell, Jane King, Josephine Crawford and May Latimer. The smartest of hats from the millinery salon on the fourth floor, presided over by Mrs. Henry B. Tenzler, and the correct shoes, gloves, bags and other accessories assembled from the store, accompanied each costume.

The revue was held under the capable direction of Martin Goldring, New York and Atlanta fashion authority and adviser, connected with Muse's, who announced the models, giving the price and explaining the new and intriguing features of each. The broad shoulder, the narrowed waistline, and the slenderizing skirt characterized the collection, an interesting departure being forecast in the return of the Moyenne line under the sponsorship of Jean Patou. "The dropped waistline of the Moyenne period is indicated by an outline usually employing a band of some kind, but the youthful effect above is retained by the elimination of lines and the skillful moulding to the figure to achieve becomingness," explained Mr. Goldring, who went on to extol the genius of Patou, whose gowns are worthy of particular notice this season.

Displaying to distinct advantage the virtues of this model was the sheer black crepe dinner gown worn by Miss Howell. The gown featured long, close-fitting sleeves of black net embroidered with tiny jet beads, and a band of the jet marking the low waistline. Another striking example of this influence was Charles Aron's interpretation in black crepe, with white plume trim, worn by Miss King. Armour is one of the foremost of the American couturiers who holds membership in the guild, and is quite daring both in his lines and his color combinations. Other members of the guild are Milgrim Barnett, Floersheimer, Roth, Jackson and Patullo. The most ravishing models from their New York showing were rushed here so that Atlanta women might have the opportunity of viewing them at Muse's at least three weeks in advance of other cities.

"Interesting to note are the weaves, the rough crests, the dull and shiny satins, the sheer woollens, the lacy knitted fabrics and the varieties of velvet," continued Mr. Goldring. "As to length, models continue to guide her street frocks from 9 to 11 inches from the floor, but she must shorten her evening gowns to ankle length," cautioned this commentator.

The mode in sports clothes was illustrated by Miss Crawford, wearing a guimpe dress of gray knit material with a shell knit blouse, an effective trimming formed by jade green buttons. Her hat was a close-fitting black felt, finished with a green ornament.

Mrs. Jones, who possesses a decided flair for wearing sports costumes with distinction, appeared in a series of smart knitted suits, the coats of which were removed to reveal graceful one-piece costumes of excellent line and cut. Focusing attention was a suit of rust red rabbit's hair cloth, full and intricately cut, the coat banded in mink, and the blouse fashioned of brown crepe satin.

Color Combinations. Achieving smartness by combining unusual colors, Armour developed a gray-ribbed wool frock with a trim of coral crepe, which was offset to particular advantage by Miss Goldsmith's brunet beauty. Completing the costume was a chic gray felt hat caught with a coral pin.

Designed especially for luncheons and teas was a handsome black wool suit, modeled by Miss Carr, the short, box coat gaining distinction by means of black soutache braid forming horizontal bands. White and gold metal cloth formed the sleeveless blouse, and her hat was a becoming black tricorne, shot with a gold arrow. Another suit of this type particularly becoming to Miss King was the novel collar and cuffs of white matiselase, a material introduced and popularized by Schiaparelli. Turquoise blue buttons furnished the only touch of color. Another black and white model that was worn by Miss Latimer in which the designer made use of a white bib collar, outlined in white ermine, on black crepe. The collar may be removed without detracting from the style of the dress. Miss Latimer's tiny black hat featured a jaunty little nose veil.

From the Betty and Babs fashions for misses and juniors which are exclusive with Muse's, was the green checked oxford cloth frock, also worn by Miss Latimer. A narrow brimmed green felt sports hat was the correct complement for the frock.

Pinafores Introduced. An amusing as well as an effective innovation was the pinafore, introduced by Chester Hicks, another prominent American creator. The idea was no doubt handed down from the pinafore days of our grandmothers and is utilitarian in purpose in that the dress may be removed to display a one-piece dress. Such a model, exhibited by Miss Goldsmith, was developed in two tones, brown and a dull red, the brown plunette revealing a bodice of red and a skirt of brown. Miss Lucas's patrician blonde beauty was enhanced by a black crepe gown which featured a tri-color trimming, another popular variation. The full bishop sleeves introduced narrow inserted strips of blue, green and white. Her hat was a Junior League model, created by Hodge, of New York, and found exclusively in Muse's millinery salon. Other famous houses represented in this salon by both the original models and clever copies include Agnes and Rose Decat of Paris, in addition to numerous New York milliners.

A coat to be worn over various frocks was the Floersheimer original, developed in black duvelga and worn by Mrs. Jones. Gorgeous silver fox formed the becoming shawl collar and banded the full sleeves.

A stunning evening gown, which Miss Howell's stately brunet type displayed to advantage, was of lustrous transparent velvet in a rich burgundy tone, the yoke and sleeves pailletted in shaded effect, the tones ranging from clear crystal to wine. Simply formed the keynote of the striking tulle red evening creation worn by Miss Goldsmith, its bias-cut, princess lines moulded to her slender figure. A short shoulder cape was caught in front with a cluster of velvet roses in the shade of the gown.

Berry Shades. Velvet also fashioned a distinctive afternoon gown in the berry shades, which are new and interesting, worn by Mrs. Jones. And for evening she chose a bishop purple velvet combined with charming effect with amethyst velvet, the shoulder cape being appliqued with hand-made velvet flowers and lined with amethyst.

A quaint black velvet costume for evening seemed designed especially for Miss Crawford's dainty, piquant type. It featured short puffed sleeves of white waffle plique and velvet epaulettes lined with the pique, which flared over the shoulders. The décolletage was square.

Signifying the return to favor of ostrich as a trimming was the apple green velvet gown for evening chosen by Miss Lucas. Green ostrich banded the hemline of the flaring skirt and forced epaulettes on the accompanying short coat.

Crinkly white crepe of a new rough weave employed as the only trimming to relieve its slender, bias lines, a cluster of cyclamen pink roses at the base of the pointed décolletage. The gown was worn by Miss King. More than a hundred prominent Atlanta women viewed the collection, which bore throughout the unmistakable stamp of Parisian smartness and the revue marked another step forward for Muse, dictator of fashion for the south.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of Miss King's parents, to which only the bridal party, out-of-town guests and a few friends will be invited.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

You Never Can Tell

When a vulnerable player picks up a hand containing five honor tricks after one non-vulnerable opponent has opened the bidding and his partner has responded with a Takeout, he cannot be blamed if he suspects that there is a Senegambian concealed somewhere in the woodpile. It is still possible that the Opening bid may be sound and that the Takeout may also have some values behind it; so while it would be unwise to permit the opponents to run away with the advantage, a certain degree of caution is advisable. The hand below, which Mr. E. L. Tighe Jr., of Jackson, Miss., submitted as one of the funniest and worst bid hands in his experience, conclusively proves this fact.

INSTALLMENT XXVI. (Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

"Not a step."

"Well, then, I shall have to carry you."

You just dare. I'd scratch and scream, and kick and bite and—"

"That's up to you. You may do all those things if you like, but I'll save you a lot of trouble and be more dignified if you come quietly."

"You're perfectly horrid, and I hate you, and I wish I never had come to this horrid old lodge."

"Are you going to come quietly?"

"No. Don't touch me."

"I warned you," Jack said, lifting her easily into his arms and striding off across the room.

Bobby struggled and sobbed, but to no avail. She was placed, still resisting, in the trophy room, was given a small pearl-handled .32 with plenty of ammunition.

"And now I'll just lock this door to be sure you stay here and to be sure that no one else can get in," said Jack, choosing a key from the ring in his pocket.

"I hate you; I hate you!" Bobby's voice sobbed through the heavy door. But Jack had no time to stand listening to Bobby, no matter how deeply her passionate, stormy voice moved him. He knew he must work very fast and that already he had wasted precious minutes.

Dusk had fallen and it was the protection of that dusk which had let the long black boat slip in unnoticed. While Jack had sat over the late dinner table with Bobby, talking of many things, and finally quarreling, the gang slipped in.

In reality Jack had never so much as considered blowing up the tunnel and he did not consider that possibility now. It wouldn't be sporting and it wouldn't be certain.

He had suggested it on the spur of the moment only to test Bobby's love for Eddie, who, both Jack and Bobby had guessed, had a hand in this affair. No, he must think of some other way to handle the situation. Looking to his gun and cartridge belt, he slipped out of the lodge and down through the pines toward the spring house. He would first watch the movements to be sure what was up, then perhaps take action.

As silently as the good woodsman he was, Jack moved over the carpet of pine needles drinking his lungs full of the freshness of the summer evening. He was no more than a shadow among the firs as he slid, cat-like, toward the spring house. He guessed that the boat would be farther down the shore where the willows thickened. He guessed, too, that there would be a guard posted at the door of the spring house and in this he was not mistaken.

As he lay stretching his eyes through the dusky thicket he made out the glowing point of light that was undoubtedly the tip of a cigarette. It did not move about like a firefly, but moved in slow arcs as it was lifted to the lips, then taken away again.

"A lazy, conceited, swaggering fellow from the way he handles that cigarette," Jack judged, without having seen so much as a shadow of the man. "I hope he goes to sleep at his post."

There seemed to be little chance of his going to sleep, however, for even as Jack watched, two men brushed by the guard, mumbled something and deposited their first look in the thicket near the shore. They passed so close to Jack's hiding place that he could almost have reached out and touched them.

"The kid says we gotta move it all tonight," one of the two said. "He's getting nuttier every day."

"Taking it on the lam for a dame," said the other in disgust. "Any time I let a skirt tell me where to get off at."

"Don't worry about the girl," said the first. "We'll be taking her for a one-way ride before the night is over."

"The kid don't like her, eh?"

"She gave him the gate."

The scrap of conversation which floated to Jack as the six men, in pairs, moved the cases of liquor to an easily accessible place beside the shore, seared into Jack's brain like an iron.

He had waited long enough. Creeping to the pile of boxes which was beyond the view of any one at the spring house, he crouched, waiting. His fingers busily doubled and redoubled the fishline which was in his pocket until he had made a silken rope of many strands, ending in a noose.

When the next pair of men arrived he watched their movements closely. No, these would not do. They moved like clockwork, almost keeping step as they returned abreast for another load. He likewise rejected the next pair of carriers who were less inviting of attack than the first. Gorillas with plenty of strength, Jack thought, and too talkative. The last pair worked without talking. One of the men was surely Eddie Carlson, would he here supervising the work and he had risked his life a dozen ways to have this opportunity to fight it out alone with the man he hated to the bottom of his heart.

Disappointment showed in every line of his face. He had thought that surely Eddie Carlson would be here supervising the work and he had risked his life a dozen ways to have this opportunity to fight it out alone with the man he hated to the bottom of his heart.

Careless of the fact that he would be trapped here, he had come to satisfy just one craving, the craving to plant a right hook and a couple of lefts to the tip of Eddie's chin.
